

A Place in the Kin-dom

words and music by Joyce Johnson Rouse

Everybody has a place in the kin-dom, place in the kin-dom,
kin-dom of God,
Everyone with red skin, black skin, and white skin, yellow skin
and brown skin is loved by God.
God loves me, God loves you,
We're all precious in God's eyes.
Everybody has a place in the kindom, place in the kindom,
kindom of God.

Every creature has a place in the kindom, place in the kindom,
kindom of God.
All the little spiders, camels and pipers, dolphins and tigers are loved by God.
God loves me, God loves you
We're all precious in God's eyes.
Every creature has a place in the kingdom, place in the kingdom, kingdom of God.

Every bit of nature is part of the kindom, part of the kindom,
kindom of God.
Every giant oak tree, orchids and seaweed, clean air and mountain streams are loved by God.
God loves me, God loves you,
We're all precious in God's eyes.
Everybody has a place in the kindom, place in the kindom,
kindom of God.

©1992 Rouse House Music (ASCAP)
276-773-8529

Joyce Johnson Rouse@2012 Rouse House Music (ASCAP) 276-773-8529

From Blessings of the Universe CD by Earth Mama® www.earthmama.org